

I am a French mother of two whose life changed in 2016 when my family moved to Lusaka, Zambia. There, I began volunteering with children in Bauleni, tutoring students, collecting school supplies, and supporting families facing difficult circumstances. Seeing how many children were out of school because of poverty or loss inspired me to do more.

Together with my friends Jane, Anna and Carmen, we founded Chance4all to help out-of-school children return to school and build a brighter future. What started with a few learners grew into a structured program offering education, tutoring, meals, and emotional support.

In 2018, my family left Zambia and moved back to the United States, but my commitment to Chance4all never stopped. When we relocated to Luxembourg in 2021, I continued raising awareness about the challenges faced by vulnerable children in Zambia. Over time, I realized that creating a partner organization in Europe would strengthen our impact.

In May 2026, I created Chance4all Luxembourg ASBL to provide a transparent and reliable framework for donations and to build awareness in Europe about the transformative power of education.

My vision is to build a sustainable bridge between Zambia and Luxembourg, expanding opportunities for children and helping each learner grow into an empowered adult.
